

Corpay Launches AI Capabilities to Modernize Spend Management

April 28, 2026

New AI Virtual Assistant reduces manual work, enhances visibility, and powers smarter finance workflows

ATLANTA--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Apr. 28, 2026-- Corpay, Inc. (NYSE: CPAY), the corporate payments company, today announced a new wave of AI-powered capabilities within Corpay Complete, marking a meaningful step forward in how businesses manage and optimize spend. These innovations bring practical, high-impact AI into everyday financial workflows to help companies move faster, reduce manual work, and make more informed decisions.

across accounts payable and expense management.

At the center of this launch is an AI Virtual Assistant that transforms how users interact with financial data. Instead of navigating complex workflows, teams can simply ask to get real-time answers and generate insights instantly.

New capabilities include:

- AI Virtual Assistant that delivers real-time answers and on-demand insights on customer transactions and accounts
- Automated receipt matching and reconciliation to reduce manual effort and errors
- Enhanced, real-time reporting that turns data into actionable insights
- AI-driven workflow automation to streamline approvals and expense processes

These features span the full Corpay Complete platform, including Commercial Cards (Purchasing Cards, T&E, Virtual Cards), Expense Management, and AP Automation to bring intelligence and efficiency to every stage of spend.

Corpay is focused on delivering AI that is not just powerful, but purposeful. These capabilities integrate seamlessly into existing workflows and help customers get more value from their data without added complexity.

Corpay's enhanced API platform extends this vision, enabling customers and partners to embed Corpay Complete into their systems and automate processes end-to-end. The result is a more connected, intelligent ecosystem that reduces friction and scales with the business.

"Mid-market companies don't need more tools, they need smarter ones," said Danny Martucci, Corpay Payables, President & GM. "With AI embedded into Corpay Complete, we're helping customers eliminate manual work, uncover better insights, and operate with greater speed and precision. Our focus is on applying AI in ways that deliver real value."

With this launch, Corpay continues to lead the evolution of spend management by combining intelligent automation, flexible infrastructure, and deep financial insight into a single platform.
